THE LOST JOY. The searching for the silver fluts,
The goblins stole from ma.
The shender fluts,
That tender fluts,
That piped so pleadingly, That all the surly folk and sad Who paused to hear me play My smiling flute. My guilding flute. Went singing on their way.

I'm searching for the silver fluts
The fairles gave to me.
The laughing flute.
The chaffing flute.
That set the captives free.

One of the most promising substi-tutes is the so-called "white gold" which is an alloy of gold and one of the platinum metals. It is not at-tacked by nitric acid. "White gold" is used in certain classes of jeweiry. Up to 150 years ago handkerchiefs were used of any shape that fancy might dictate. Then Marie Antoinetto chanced to remark to Louis XVI, that it would be more convenient if only the square form was used, and the king, to please her, issued an adict on king, to picase her, issued an adict of January 2, 1785, decreeing that "the length of handkerchiefs shall be equal to their width throughout the king-dom. The shape made compulsory by that royal edict has never since been departed from.
